

PHILENERGY RESCHEDULED TO 22 - 24 MARCH 2023

After careful consideration and discussion with our key stakeholders in the Energy industry, and considering current local government restrictions, Informa Markets has decided to move PhilEnergy to 22 – 24 March 2023.

In light of the current restrictions around international travel and hosting of large gatherings, we believe that by rescheduling the event, we can provide the high-quality experience that our customers, partners, and colleagues expect and deserve, in a safe environment.

Meanwhile, PhilEnergy will continue to keep the Energy industry connected, allowing businesses to reach their target markets through our digital events wherein companies can attend webinars and virtual events, and stay up to date with industry news.

Our team is working through the detail that will support the event and will be sharing updates through our website, e-newsletters and social media platforms in the coming weeks.

We sincerely hope you understand that this decision is being made in the interest of our suppliers and buyers, who would benefit from attending the show on the new dates.

We wish to thank you for supporting PhilEnergy and greatly appreciate your patience and understanding.
